Convenience Service Terminal focuses on meeting the needs of enterprises and the public by breaking down the restrictions of government-dedicated networks and data barriers among departments. Through "integrated reform and smart empowerment" in self-service, it enhances the level of intelligence and convenience in government services. Leveraging its advantages in real-name authentication, electronic seals, and document printing, it enables "fully remote" service handling and "immediate results," thus speeding up and increasing the efficiency of transactions for both the public and enterprises.

/ Characteristic Service

Facial Recognition for Completion

Introducing the self-service mode of face recognition, where users only need to verify their identity through facial scanning to independently complete various inquiries and documentation services, achieving a full-process handling of over 90% of government affairs.

Nearby Services Available

By establishing services in nearby enterprise parks, communities, and other high-traffic areas, the public can access the necessary government services closer to their homes or workplaces, eliminating the need for long-distance travel. This 'nearby services available' model has significantly improved the convenience and accessibility of government services, allowing the public to enjoy a more efficient and personalized service experience.

One-stop Service

This platform integrates multiple government service needs, such as social security, medical insurance, public security, provident fund, and real estate. Both enterprises and the public can meet various business needs in one location without having to visit multiple departments or counters, achieving a one-stop processing system that significantly enhances efficiency.

Precise Guidance

Actively and accurately recommends services tailored to the needs of enterprises and the public, enabling users to conveniently access the relevant information and services they require. This enhances the personalization and precision of government services, allowing both enterprises and the public to enjoy higher quality and more efficient government services.
